

(LIVESTREAMS!)Djokovic vs Draper Live free Indian Wells Open March 11, 2026

March 11, 2026

Fatigued after long rallies, with evident ups and downs in performance, doubts about discomfort in his right arm, and facing increasing opposition. All of this is influencing the course of Novak Djokovic at Indian Wells 2026, which seems like a true desert journey for the Balkan player, hoping to come out unscathed until reaching the oasis of facing one of the world's best players in the later rounds.

Jack Draper will continue his Indian Wells title defence against Novak Djokovic after an impressive win on Monday - while Cameron Norrie claimed a major third-round scalp.

British number one Draper beat Argentina's world number 20 Francisco Cerundolo 6-1 7-5 to set up a last-16 meeting with 24-time Grand Slam champion Djokovic.

Djokovic, the world number three, overcame American Aleksandar Kovacevic 6-4 1-6 6-4 to keep his own campaign going.

British number two Norrie also reached the fourth round by upsetting the sixth seed, Australia's Alex de Minaur, 6-4 6-4.

Draper, 24, returned last week after an eight-month absence from the ATP Tour because of an arm injury.

And the world number 14 continued his comeback with a more commanding performance than he delivered during his second-round win over Spain's Roberto Bautista Agut.

He is glad to be back but eager to stress these are early days in his mission to recover prime form.

"I'm only just getting to the point where I'm playing without pain in my arm, so it's not easy to feel really confident," Draper told Sky Sports.

"Obviously I've been playing a little bit, but I've got to accept that my tennis isn't going to be completely there for a while."

'What he is doing is mind-blowing'

Draper claimed the first set inside 32 minutes before Cerundolo provided a sterner test in the second, breaking Draper's serve in the opening game.

A further break meant Cerundolo had the chance to serve for the set at 5-4 up, but Draper resisted and took the next three games to clinch victory on his first match point.

Draper's win means he will face 38-year-old Djokovic for the first time since he took the first set off the defending champion on his Wimbledon debut in 2021.

"I've been watching him since I was a young boy and in my opinion he's the greatest player of all-time," said Draper.

"When you come up against him you know he's going to be there mentally, you know he's going to make it an incredibly tough match and play some crazy tennis. I'm going to have to be ready for that.

"Anyone who is in the game and knows tennis, knows that what he has done in the sport and what he is still doing is mind-blowing."

The victories for Norrie and Draper came a day on from fellow Briton Emma Raducanu being well beaten by American Amanda Anisimova, winning only two games and being ousted in 52 minutes.

Norrie is the 27th seed in the men's draw but played above that status as he earned three breaks en route to victory over De Minaur.

His next opponent will be Australian qualifier Rinky Hijikata, who beat Kazakhstan's 10th seed Alexander Bublik in three sets.

Alcaraz survives Rinderknech test

World number one Carlos Alcaraz survived a tricky encounter against France's Arthur Rinderknech to progress to the last 16.

The Spaniard trailed by a set and an early break but turned the match around for a 6-7(6) 6-3 6-2 victory, extending his perfect start to the 2026 season to 14-0.

Alcaraz, who struggled with an ankle issue in the second set, said he was not concerned with the problem after moving "perfectly" for the remainder of the match.

The 22-year-old will take on Casper Ruud in the next round after the Norwegian's 3-6 6-3 6-4 win against 24th seed Valentin Vacherot.

Novak Djokovic walks with certain doubts in the early stages of this Indian Wells 2026 tournament, having dropped two sets against low-ranking opponents and showing some physical concerns. With these ingredients, he will face a major challenge trying to defeat the current champion, Jack Draper. We explain when and where to watch this match live.

You can watch the showdown between Novak Djokovic and Jack Draper in the round of 16 at ATP Masters 1000 Indian Wells 2026 live on Bet365. You just need to register on the platform and make a minimum deposit of €5. From that moment, live streaming will be automatically activated without having to place any bets. You can follow the match on your mobile, tablet, or PC by accessing the "Live" section where you will find all available matches.

Fatigued after long rallies, with evident ups and downs in performance, doubts about discomfort in his right arm, and facing increasing opposition. All of this is influencing the course of Novak Djokovic at Indian Wells 2026, which seems like a true desert journey for the Balkan player, hoping to come out unscathed until reaching the oasis of facing one of the world's best players in the later rounds.

Motivation should not be lacking for the Serbian in his clash against Jack Draper, the current tournament champion and a player of tremendous potential eager to definitively leave behind the serious physical issues that kept him out of competition for many months. The Briton is showing good sensations this week and faces a real litmus test to assess if he has already regained the intangibles and competitive rhythm that quickly fade away when not competing for a while.

Indian Wells 2026: What time and when is Novak Djokovic's next match
The clash between Novak Djokovic and Jack Draper corresponding to the Indian Wells 2026 round of 16 will take place this Wednesday, March 11, with the schedule yet to be confirmed. It can be watched live in Spain through Movistar+, either on channel 7 or #Vamos, as well as on one of the channels in the Deportes+ package. In Latin America, it will be broadcasted on ESPN and Disney+, while on TennisTV, it can be watched on any device from anywhere in the world thanks to its live streaming subscription system.